

The NAB needs to enter the 21st century. They are running scared and can think of no other way to build themselves up than by tearing down the competition. They only like capitalism if they are the top dog. If XM is playing by the rules than the NAB should be billed for wasting Congressional time where more important issues need to be decided. I pay for my services on a month to month basis. There are times that regular FM doesn't cover my needs and I use XM to get the information I want and I pay for. If the NAB gets their way than they should pay the XM radio and its subscribers for decreased coverage that they would like taken away.
